

Topology Optimization in Multiphysics Problems

Atsushi KAWAMOTO, Ph.D.

Senior Researcher TOYOTA CENTRAL R&D LABS., INC., Japan

This lecture explains the basic concept of topology optimization, discusses the involved methodological elements, and focuses on some specific issues to multiphysics problems. Also, our research activities in this field are partly presented such as thermal stress relaxation of power semiconductor devices, designing heat exchangers and prototyping lightweight car seat structures.